- Name of Website: Event Tents
- Topic Description: My dad and his friend started a tent business a little under a year ago. They have a tent for any type of event you can think of; they have done concerts, cookouts, birthdays, receptions, repasses, graduation, and baby showers. My dad asked me during my sophomore year to create a website for them so that they can showcase their events and keep up with clientele. I decided to wait until now since I knew I would be taking a web development course. I accepted the challenge so that they can have an official website to send to potential clients instead of just using word of mouth and a few pictures that they have taken over time.
- List of pages:
    - Home page (explaining what they do and who they work for)
    - About Us (A background story for both of them)
    - Services/Tent Rentals (List what type of services/events they provide tents for. May also include pricing)
    - Tent Gallery/List of Reviews
    - Contact (inquiring about a tent)
- Data Being Stored:
    - Clients Information (first name, last name, email address, phone number)
    - Client Reviews (customer name, the review, rating, event type, and date)
    - Tent Information (tent type, tent size, capacity-how many people can fit under the tent)
